Investing in new technologies requires time, subject matter expertise and the experience to understand the interconnected dependencies of your business-critical applications. Much more than a sales agent or “consultant,” BlueViolet Networks is a full-service provider who supports clients with a staff of consultants, project managers, trainers, and highly skilled, expert engineers.

Support

BlueViolet Networks employ the very best people with the deepest knowledge of how your technologies interoperate between your local IT infrastructure and your cloud service providers. Having implemented and supported over 5000 enterprise customer deployments in Contact Center, Enterprise Communications, and complex WAN technologies, our advanced IT and VMware certified engineers can quickly identify and resolve the issue with the underlying technology provider; saving you time and eliminating finger pointing.

Single Point of Contact

Constant engagement with leading solutions providers as well as emerging technologies, allow us to navigate through the noise of marketing, helping our clients stay focused on what matters most - business drivers. Our vendor agnostic approach means there is no conflict of interest. We are your advocates from proof of concept to finding you the best terms and conditions offered by providers. There is no substitute for our experience.

Implementation

Communication throughout the process helps keep deployments on time and on budget. From the initial discovery and documentation to the coordination with the many inter-dependent providers required, BlueViolet Networks will manage the often-overlooked partnerships, internally and externally, that are necessary for a successful project.
